THE PLAN PERFECTED.

THE SOCIETY OF ASSOCIATED CHAR-ITT IS NOW FULLY ORGANIZED.

Every Department of the Work to be Conducted Without Conflict With Religious Belief or Other Organizations.

An adjourned meeting of ladies and gendemen interested in the establishing of a charity organization was held in the directors' room of the Young Men's Chtistian Association yesterday afternoon. owing to the inclement weather the attendance was rather small. Mayor Ellyson presided, and Secretary Candlish, of the Young Men's Christian Association, recorded.

Rev. Ed. M. Calisch, D. D., on behalf of the special committee appointed to draw a plan of organization, submitted his report, which, among other things, centained the following:

THE HEBREW HOME.

Annual Meeting Election of Officers The Financial Condition.

There was an annual meeting of the Hebrew Home for the Aged and Infirm held at the Synagogue Beth Ahaba on Sunday afternoon. The large attendance exceeded that of many previous meetings. The report of the president, Mr. Henry S. Hutzler, which was a very able docu-ment, showed that much interest had been manifested in the past year; that the membership was increasing, and that the funds had also increased over $1,500 dur-ing the year, making the total sum on hand over $7,000. Three persons are now beneficiaries of the Home. The election of officers resulted as follows: Henry S. Hutzler, president; L. Z. Morris, vice-president; Isaac Held, secretary and treasurer; Samuel Proskauer, solicitor, Directors; Rev. E. N. Callsch, S. Binswanger, Sig. M. Goodman, Jacob Lewitt, William Lovenstein, Abr. Lezy, M. Thallhimer, P. Whitlock, M. B. Rosen

Mr. Charles Hutzler, who was the able and efficient secretary and treasurer of the Home since its organization, declined re-election, and it was with sincere re-gret on the part of the Association that he severed his connection therefrom. The thanks of the Association were ten-dered him for his past services by a rising ote, in which the ladies also joined. Rev. E. N. Calisch delivered a short and interesting address.

IN THE CHURCHES.

Some of the Sayings and Doings of Rich-

Sunday was the second anniversary of the West-View Baptist church. The report of Rev. W. P. Hines, the pastor, showed a remarkable growth. The present membership is 189. Of these 51 were received during the year-40 by baptism. 44 by letter and 7 by experience. There were 22 losses. The revival services at Pine-street the revival services at The street church closed Friday night. There were about eighty-five professions and forty additions to the membership. Rev. J. B. Hutson, who did the preaching, began a meeting Sunday with the Fulton church under favorable circumstances.

Dr. Hatcher received five members by letter at the Grace-street church Sunday morning, Rev. H. M. Wharton, D. D., will begin a series of meetings there next

Rev. Dr. R. H. Pitt preached Sunday Rev. Dr. R. H. Pitt preached Sunday morning at Venable-street church, greatly to the delight of his old congregation. Rev. W. J. Jolly, pastor of kandolph-street church, gave the right hand of fel-lowship to ten persons Sunday. The an-niversary of that church next Thursday promises to be a very interesting.

Rev. S. R. Gammon, returned missionary from Brazil, made an interesting ad-dress at the Church of the Covenant Sunday morning and at the Grace-street church in the evening.

At St. John's Sunday afternoon was in-augurated a series of services that will continue until Easter, commencing at 5 o'clock. There was a large congregation present, and Rev. Dr. Lewis W. Eurton took for his text the story of the blind beggar who called to Christ as he was his way to Jerusalem. The sermon drew from the story was in keeping with the exhortation he made to those who are to be confirmed by the bishop. Right Rev. F. M. Whittle, Bishop of the diocese of Virginia, will visit St. John's church Sunday, March 5th, to confirm those whom the rector of the church, Rev. L. W. Burton, will present to him. Rev. Dr. Siedd preached Sunday after-noon at Highland Park, where a new Methodist church has been established, with sixty members. They will soon oc-cupy a pretty new church building. The membership is growing, and a live church will be the result.

will be the result. Dr. W. J. Young, of Park-Place Methodist church, is preaching to large congre-gations. He is an eloquent and beautiful speaker, and so entirely original in style as to make his preaching unusually at-tractive. His address to the young men at the Young Men's Christian Associa-tion Sunday afternoon was highly appre-ciated by all present. Rev. Dr. Siedd preached Sunday morning to a large congregation at Centenary, and administered the Communion to sev-eral hundred persons. Rev. Dr. Hoge preached at night.

Sunday night Rev. Jabez Hall com-menced at Seventh-street church a series of sermons on "The Last Things." At the morning service two persons united with his church. On Wednesday night the congregation will have an important meeting. It is understood that the debt that for several years has hung like a cloud over this church has been liquidated to the last dollar.

At the missionary meeting held Sunday night at the Church of the Covenant, under the auspices of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the church, two beautiful maps were dis-played, one of the world and the other showing the countries lying between In-dia and China-Laos, Siam, Assam and Burmah. Eight papers, describing the re-Burmah. Eight papers, describing the religions, social customs, "physical features and mission work in these countries, were read by members of the society. Mr. Douglas Leftwich rendered with much expression the solo, "If I Were a Voice." A collection was taken for foreign missions and about $29 realized. The exercises terminated with an eloquent address by the pastor of the church, Rev. J. Calvin Stewart. J. Calvin Stewart.

Mrs. Mary Walker Barney, wife of Dr. Charles G. Barney, died yesterday morning of pneumonia after a short illness. This intelligence will be a shock to a large circle of friends. He Represented the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and Has the Names of All Who Attended.

Dr. Jud. B. Wood at a cock-fight! Well, who would have thought it? and he, the president of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, too. Nevertheless it's a fact. The Doctor declares, however, that he has had enough of chicken-fights, and that he will never again attend one. His presence this time at such a place came about in this wise: Since his elec-Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Dr. Wood has had his weather eye constantly on those who have been induiging in such sport. He has known the time and place of almost every fight in this vicinity for several months past, but he has utterly failed in his efforts to procure suitable evidence to warrant him in bringing the matter before the courts. But he de-cided long ago that before the courts the matter should come, and that in no uncertain way.

A fight was arranged for yesterday afternoon, and the Doctor, as usual, was right "on to it." In fact he had been informed long enough ahead to allow his beard to grow at its own sweet will for several days. The president's beard grows rapidly, and this is exactly what he grows rapidly, and this is exactly what he needed in this particular instance, for he knew full well that Dr. Jud. B. Wood, as president of this humane society, could not see the fun. However, he had a little idea of his own that Dr. Jud. B. Wood as the tough sport would be able to gain admission without difficulty. With this idea prominent in his mind the Doctor, as aforesaid, allowed his luxurious beard as aforesaid, allowed his luxurious beard for several days to become the plaything of the gentle zephyrs. He then secured a soft felt hat and an old overcoat; put on his fishing trousers and his arctic shoes. Thus clad he was ready to present him-self for admission.

The time for the contest was fixed at 1 o'clock, and the place was the old Drewry Marsion, about two miles below Man-

He invited a friend whom he trust to accompany him, and they drove to the place in a buggy. Fearing that he might be "turned down" at the door, the Doctor sent his friend in first, and the Doctor sent his friend in first, and after seeing him safely within the lines he carelessly sauntered up to the gate-keeper and asked "how much." If paid his dollar and walked in.

And then the sight. One of the big porches was the amphitheatre, in the centre of which was a pit built of boards shout eighteen high with a floor. This

Nor were they toughs. The assemblage was composed largely of business men prominent in both cities. The amateur detective made himself perfectly at home to avoid suspicion, and managed to keep his hat pulled carefully over his eyes. Those who gave him a passing glance, thought that he was a broken down sport who had come to see the fun, and nobody worried about his presence. Soon after he had gotten in the fight began. The contest was between Richmond and Manchester cocks.

The first pair in the pit was a red and a gray. The red bird's leg was broken in a gray. The red birds leg was block in the first round, but they continued as the Doctor expressed it, for ten or fifteen minutes like buil dogs. Frequently he said the gaffs would be buried so deep in the body or neck of the adversary that the handlers would have to pull them apart. In the second round the Richmond bird year killed outriebt. bird was killed outright.

When I talked with Dr. Wood last night he was greatly pleased at the suc-cess of his first detective experience. He only stayed to see two rounds, as he considered that he had evidence in abund-ance. He was greatly worked up over the affair and declared that he never dreamed While there he secured not only the names of the two handlers and the gate keeper, but also the names of all thos friends. It is, he says, a sad duty which he has to perform, but he will not let friendship stand in the way of what he considers right. The attorney for the society will be consulted to-day and the case will be munity if the laws are strong enough, and he has a mighty strong idea that they are. This, he says, is his first and last experience as detective for the so-ciety, but that they will soon be in a position to employ competent men to per-form this part of the work.

Lost in New York.

The realistic drama, "Lost in New lork," was presented at the Richmond The are last evening to quite a large audience. The galleries, particularly, were crowded, and the gallery gods were more than pleased with the triumphant efforts of the hero and the victorious moments of the heroine. Of course, the play is like many of its kind, where there is a lost child, a designing villain, an honest and praiseworthy hero, and a warm-hearted and loving heroine. The play serves the purpose of showing a phase of New York life, and the cast presented their varied characters in a pleasing manner. Some of the scenic effects are excellent and aid materially in the production of a very good melo-drama.

The play will be repeated this evening. and there will be a matinee to-morrow with a performance at night. Horsford's Acid Phosphate
